(1969 – 2012)

*1969-1992 Data Compiled by F. Paul Driscoll (1973-76, 89, 90-95, 97)
1993-2010 Data Compiled by Erik Haslun (1974, 84-85)*

AUTHOR'S NOTE

As you read through this and search for your name or the name of a favorite performer, you may find an error or omission. If you do, please remember that any error or omission is not personal. Really, please remember this! It is simply that the sheer amount of the data must have resulted in something getting deleted or wrongly transcribed. Please send me an email. Simply send me a note at ehaslun@gmail.com and let me know what the error is. You are doing me a huge favor by performing this kind of proof reading.

It feels a bit false to call myself an Author. F. Paul Driscoll is an author, I am not. And so, this is not a continuation of F. Paul's wonderful 25 Years at Highfield; A History of the College Light Opera Company, but rather a continuation of the tireless work he did compiling the data from CLOC's first 25 years. My goal was (and is) to simply maintain a "living" document to be updated at the end of each season, thereby ensuring that we remember the names and performances of the many people that contributed to CLOC's enduring success.

I have been around College Light Opera Company for most of its 42 years. At age 5, I was amongst the very few audience members who braved seeing a matinee performance of a relatively new show called "The Fantasticks". At age 7, I helped my Mom and Dad (later Chef Bruder) prepare Beef Wellington in the old "Tanglewood" house kitchen for the opening night patio party. At age 10, I played the Midshipmite to David Bradley's Boatswain's Mate and when I sat on his shoulders in the Act II finale, I remember believing I could almost touch the rafters. On the day I turned 11, I attended the wedding of Uncle B & Aunt Urs and the subsequent last official wedding reception at The Inn at West Falmouth where all the extended Haslun family slipped me five and ten dollar bills because B and Urs had told them that I was afraid everyone had forgotten my birthday. At age 19, I remember singing on the Highfield Stage the audition material for the Sergeant of Police in Pirates, a song I had repeatedly sung to myself since hearing it during the 1969 CLOC season. At age 20, I remember forgetting the lines to Pooh-Bah's song in the First Act finale and trying to sell the alternative text of "Rum Pum Pum" to the audience. In my early thirties, I remember visiting my Dad during his years as Chef Bruder and cooking at CLOC with no electricity after Hurricane Bob. These are but a few of the many memories I have of CLOC and more are made each season.

CLOC is an intensely important place for me and I know I am not alone in feeling that way. I hope these Annals bring back some memories for you as well.

INTRODUCTION

With the approach of CLOC's 40th anniversary season, there was increasing discussion among those close to the organization about what might be an appropriate way to celebrate this extraordinary event. The obvious device was to hold some sort of a gala celebration. These are in themselves great events, but require enormous amounts of work to be done right. They are usually tied in to an endowment or building fund-raising effort to make that enormous effort worthwhile. CLOC had recently completed a successful capital campaign for the renovation of two of its dormitories on the West Falmouth campus and we concluded that a new campaign at this time was not appropriate and would probably not be successful.

Further discussion began to center on the idea of bringing F. Paul Driscoll's 25th anniversary history and annals of the Company up-to-date and a consensus emerged that this would be a good thing, but who was there to do it.

Paul had written the narrative, compiled the annals, and produced the 25th anniversary gala by himself. It was a huge undertaking and not one we could lend too much time to because we were involved in producing the 25th anniversary season, itself a huge undertaking. Paul did a brilliant job on the book itself and then on the 25th gala celebration event. By 2008, he had been Editor-in-Chief of Opera News for 5 years and was in no position to offer his services again.

Somewhere during these discussions, our good friend and nephew, Erik Haslun, joined in. He took a look at the scope of the project, and then volunteered to take it on as a personal gift to the Company. His only stipulation was that he could not continue the narrative prose portion of the book.

We discussed this at some length with him and agreed to ask him to proceed with the update. He was able to incorporate all of the detailed work done by Paul Driscoll for the 25th anniversary book and then began painstakingly adding the up-dates since the 1993 season. Fortunately, desktop computing has come a remarkably long way in 15 years and manipulating and editing files was considerably easier than it had been. Nonetheless, there were many hours of painstaking data entry that had to be undertaken and many details had to be worked over to insure the best accuracy possible.

During the course of the revisions, Erik came up with several new and expanded sections for the annals. The most interesting and useful to CLOC fanatics is the table he added so that one can look up a title of any CLOC show and then compare cast lists for each production. To answer the question, "Who played Katisha in the Mikado over the years?" one only has to go to that show and page down the cast list to Katisha and there they all are! Other new sections include a list of production and business staff for all years by position, a list of all holders of endowed chairs by year and production totals of musical and stage Directors.

Who are the "Annals of the College Light Opera Company" for? Well, they are for everyone with an interest in CLOC. Scholars and researchers will find incredible amounts of useful information. An author writing a biography of Nancy Anderson, for example, can go here and find everything about her stage life with CLOC. People with random memory questions about who played what when or what was the cast of a show in 1970 can easily find the information. It should be a great Trivial Pursuits reference also for died-in-the-wool CLOC groupies!

This volume is available in hard copy from us for $125.00, and is available at our website for free downloading or reference – www.collegelightoperacompany.com

Our sincere thanks to F. Paul Driscoll and Erik Haslun for making this record of the CLOC saga possible. We look forward to a continued and long friendship with them both!

ENDOWED AND NAMED ORCHESTRA CHAIRS (DESCRIPTION)

The custom of endowing and naming chairs in the CLOC orchestra began in 1992 with four chairs initially endowed and named. In 1993, the 25th anniversary year, two additional were added. As of 2008, there were 14 endowed chairs in the 19-member orchestra.

The custom of endowing chairs in orchestras has long been common in symphony orchestras throughout the United States. The objective of endowing a chair is to create a sufficient addition to the permanent restricted endowment fund to generate the compensation of the musician holding that chair each year. This provides budget relief for the annual operating expenses. The donors of such funds are attracted to the fact that the name of the person being recognized is permanently attached to the chair and is recognized in the programs of each performance.

Here is the list, year of endowment, and a historical note for each of the currently endowed chairs:

Roland and Dorothy Bessette in Flute - 1992

Roland and Dorothy Bessette had been long-time season ticket holders and supporters of CLOC until age took them away from the Cape. Their daughter, Jo-Anne Bessette, endowed the chair in their names after their deaths in 1991.

Sandy Shanklin Burkhardt in First Violin (Concertmaster) - 2000

Sandy Shanklin was the daughter of Douglas and Virginia Shanklin. Doug has been a trustee of CLOC since 1973. Sandy died in 1997 after a life-long battle of complications from diabetes. Sandy's parents established the chair to honor their daughter. Her twin sister, Leigh, suffered from the same disease and died in 2004. A chair in her name was named after her death (see below).

Lynn Catt in Violin – 1992

Lynn Catt and his partner, Martin Rieger, had attended CLOC from the founding year and had been loyal supporters. Lynn died suddenly of a heart attack at a relatively early age and Marty asked us about an enduring memorial for him. We suggested the possibility of endowing and naming one of our dormitories for Lynn, but Marty, with his legendary sense of humor, wrote back and said, "so you're proposing naming a dormitory Catt House and then putting all your sopranos in it – I don't think so." The chair in violin was established instead.

Sydney Welsh Croff in French Horn - 2005

Sydney Welsh Croff is the daughter of Stanley Welsh (see below). She and her husband, Egil Croff, returned to the United States from an extended period abroad and began attending CLOC shows. They became enthusiastic supporters and created this endowed chair in Sydney's honor.

Ann Cott Evans in Oboe - 1992

The two Evans Chairs were created at the time of our 25th anniversary season by Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Evans, long-time CLOC supporters. The chairs are named to honor their grandchildren, Ann and Paul.

Paul Randall Evans in Trumpet - 1992

(See Ann Cott Evans above.)

Virginia Birch Fiori in Clarinet -2008

Robert Birch, a long-time and enthusiastic CLOC supporter, gave this chair in honor of his sister who passed away in 2008.

Thomas J. Geraghty in Trumpet - 2011

Robert A. Gibson in Trombone - 1992

Robert A. Gibson was Director of Productions for the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company in London after World War II and through 1954 and then served the Oberlin College Gilbert & Sullivan Players in that capacity for many years at Highfield Theatre in the late 1950s until the demise of that group after the 1968 season. Bob was a devoted disciple of W.S. Gilbert and served as his repetiteur both at the D'Oyly Carte and the Oberlin Players. Many aging Savoyards today know Gilbert's original staging from having worked with Robert Gibson. An anonymous gift was given at the time of the 25th anniversary season to recognize him.

James G. Kazanis in Percussion - 2004

Jim Kazanis was a member of the Oberlin College Players at Highfield Theatre in the 1960s. A wonderful and charming man, he became a school teacher and then suffered for many years with a severely degenerative illness. He died in 2003 and a long-time friend of his and of CLOC, Hartley Hoskins, endowed the chair in his name.

Gertrude Reilly Pollis in Clarinet - 2007

Gertrude Reilly Pollis was a long-time and enthusiastic CLOC season ticket holder. She attended performances faithfully until age kept her away. Upon her death in 2007, her daughter, Jane Pollis Kennedy, established this chair in her memory.

Martin L. Rieger in Bassoon - 2002

Marty Rieger, mentioned above under the Catt chair, remained a CLOC fan for many years after Lynn Catt died. He had worked in the railroad industry for many years and then in the electric power industry. He became ill with multiple sclerosis and moved to Florida. He continued his interest in CLOC and for many years it was one of Bob's jobs at the end of each season to send him the complete collection of programs for that season along with a note about the productions. He left in his will the money to establish a chair in his name.

Elizabeth and Stuart Robertson in Violoncello - 1993

Elizabeth and Stuart Robertson were summer residents of Falmouth for many years and had been strong supporters of the Oberlin College Players until that company's demise. They continued their support from the first CLOC season until their deaths. Members of the Robertson family, all strong supporters of CLOC, gave the funds to establish the chair in memory of their parents.

Leigh Dabney Shanklin in Viola - 2005

Leigh Shanklin was a member of the CLOC company as a box office treasurer in 1973 and a costume staff member in 1974. She and her twin sister, Sandy (see above under Burkhardt) both died of complications from life-long battles with complications from diabetes. Her parents, Douglas and Virginia Shanklin, had established the John and Muriel Shanklin Chair in 1994 in honor of Doug's parents. There was, sadly, always the knowledge in the Shanklin family that Sandy and Leigh might someday succumb to their illness and it was with this in mind that the Shanklins established the chair with the intent to change the name in the case of Leigh's death. This was done in 2005 after Leigh's untimely death.

Wytttenbach Family in Violin - 2011

Stanley G. Welsh in Double Bass - 1995

Stanley Welsh, along with his sister, Marjorie Whittemore, purchased the entire Beebe Woods property in 1966 with plans ultimately to develop it. Stanley took a deep personal interest in the property and strongly supported the on-going work of the Oberlin College Players and then CLOC after its founding in 1969. He remained friends of Bob and Ursula for many years after he and his sister sold the property in 1973. During his lifetime, he deeded an area of beach property he owned on Vineyard Sound to CLOC. The chair was established in his name after CLOC sold the property.

The Annals of the College Light Opera Company is not copyrighted. It is available for all to use and copy and to download at the CLOC website (www.collegelightoperacompany.com). We ask only that the book be credited for any source material used by you and we ask that F. Paul Driscoll and Erik Haslun be credited as authors.

Erik Haslun was a member of the CLOC vocal company in 1984 and 1985 and a Guest Artist in CLOC's 25th anniversary gala in 1993. As a child, he served as a Guest Artist in the 1974 production of H.M.S. Pinafore, playing the role of the Midshipmite. He is Bob and Ursula Haslun's nephew and his father, Bruce Haslun, served as CLOC chef for eight seasons in the late 1980s and early 1990s. Erik volunteers as CLOC's Alumni Director and is a member of the Board of Trustees. Erik lives in Connecticut, where he is a finance executive and serves on the Board of Directors of Connecticut Concert Opera.

F. Paul Driscoll was a member of the CLOC vocal company in 1972. He then served as Box Office Treasurer, Director of Plant and Property and returned as a Stage Director in 1990. He became the first CLOC stage director to direct the entire Savoy canon at Highfield Theatre (except Princess Ida and The Grand Duke). Paul wrote the 25th anniversary gala history book and produced the 25th anniversary gala. He is currently Editor of Opera News.
